

Sustainable growth at the heart of the business and climate summit

During Climate Week, Rexel participated in the Business and Climate Summit, organized at the UNESCO headquarters in Paris, in May 2015, 200 days before the launch of COP 21. Over two days of discussion between the leaders of companies and political decision makers, solutions and progress made in driving sustainable growth, as well as recommendations, were put forward for the roll-out of these solutions on a wide scale. This was a key milestone in the preparation for the UN Climate Change Conference taking place in December 2015. Rudy Provoost, CEO and Chairman of Rexel, took part in the Summit alongside the leaders of other major companies, committed to finding solutions to today's climate challenges.
